

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A satellite positioning device is disclosed for determining position based on received satellite navigation signals and a received non-satellite signal. A local clock controls the epoch period of a satellite signal processor. Correction signals are applied to the local clock in order to improve the synchronization between the satellite signal processor and the non-satellite signal processor.